

PARLIAMENT IS OPENED TODAY BY THE KING

Speech From Throne
To Lawmakers This Morning.

BRITAIN AT PEACE

Address To Assembled Lawmakers Will Go Down As Strong Document Say Observers.

LONDON, Dec. 9. (AP)—King George opened parliament in state today with a speech from the throne full of pronouncements on foreign and domestic affairs, beginning with the declaration that British relations with foreign powers continued friendly.

The king asserted that Egypt had accepted the demands of Great Britain for redress of the assassination of Sirdar Stack. The king went on to say that the government was unable to recommend parliamentary consideration of soviet treaties but desired normal intercourse with Russia.

The government also proposed to continue with the construction of the Singapore naval base, the king continued. He said the Prince of Wales had received and accepted invitations from Argentina and South Africa, next year.

He emphasized that every effort was being made to reduce the burden of expense and relieve the tax payer. The burden of the king's speech was to call attention to the signs of improvement in trade and to promise relief from unemployment.

He said that plans were being made to overcome the rising cost of material and reduce the housing shortage.

The speech was an unusually comprehensive one it was considered in the political world and likely to take its place among the historical documents of exceptional importance.

NOTED AUTHORESS FATALLY INJURED

Gene Stratton Porter, Creator Of "Freckles" and "Laddie" Is Fatally Injured In Crash.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 9. (AP)—Gene Stratton Porter, novelist and short story writer died here Saturday of injuries sustained when her automobile collided with a street car a few hours earlier.

The writer's husband, Charles D. Porter of Rome City, Ind., a banker, whose arrival here for Christmas was expected by Mrs. Porter, has been notified of his wife's death.

Mrs. Porter had been a resident of California for the last five years during which time she continued her writing, and reproduced a number of her books in moving pictures.

The accident in which the authoress was injured fatally, happened a short distance from her home while she was on her way to call on her brother, Jerome Q. Stratton. In connection with these productions, Mrs. Porter organized the Gene Stratton Porter, Inc., a Delaware corporation to handle the motion picture making and exploitation of her novels.

Mrs. Porter was born on a farm in Wabash county, Indiana, in 1868. She was a daughter of Mark and Mary Stratton.

Mrs. Porter was married in 1896 to Charles Darwin Porter. For two years she was editor of the camera department of "Recreation", and for two years a member of the national history department of "Outing".

For four years she was a specialist in natural history photography or Photographic Times' Annual Almanac.

Mrs. Porter was a member of the society of Western Authors, the National Audubon society and the National Geographic Society.

Whiskey Rebellion Of Time Of Washington Was Infante

Old Riots Compared To Present Violations.

NATION WIDE

State Boundaries Do Not Confine Law Violations, Which Judge Brands As Heinous Crime.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 9. (AP)—The possible need of requesting the president and governor to enforce martial law upon the Jersey water front as an only alternative to state wide anarchy, was called to the attention of the Hudson county grand jury today by supreme court justice Minturn in connection with the instructions as to their duties in conducting bootlegging conspiracy in Weehawken.

"Your investigation" the judge said "may lead into channels of corruption so broad and varied in their ramifications as will enable you to perceive that this heinous conspiracy is not confined to this county and state but is coextensive with national boundaries and is in effect nothing less than portentous subterranean rebellion against the constitution and laws of the nation."

"The whiskey Rebellion in the time of Washington is but infantile in proportions" the judge further informed the jury.

RENEW FIGHT ON WHITE PLAGUE

Kentucky's Quota In The Sale Of Christmas Stickers Has Been Fixed At $60,000.

Kentucky's pennies have been called on to fight the white plague $60,000 of them.

The quota of Kentucky in the sale of Christmas seals, the little stickers that adorn Santa Claus' gifts, has been fixed at $60,000 as this state's share in the battle to eliminate tuberculosis. The headquarters of the Christmas Seal sales are the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, 532 West Main St., Louisville with Dr. J. S. Lock, executive secretary in charge.

The Christmas Seal with its double barred red cross, the emblem of the National Tuberculosis Association, which is familiar in every corner of the nation, dates to an idea of a Danish post master in 1901. However the idea did not reach America until 1907 when the first efforts at selling the little penny seals were in behalf of a Delaware tuberculosis sanatorium and brought in $10,000.

The originator was Einar Holboell, postmaster in a small town in Denmark and in appearance a counterpart of Santa Claus. Seeing the countless stamps pass through his office during the Christmas season, this big, benevolent Nordie conceived the idea of using a fancy stamp to sell at a penny to help the tuberculous children in his town.

Miss Emily Bissell of Wilmington Delaware heard of this plan in 1907 and used it with the result that the following year it was taken up nationally and today the Christmas Seal has won such a place in the Yule, this season that its returns have been the greatest factor in financing the battle against this disease.

Baby With Parents on Flight

Two-year-old Virginia Arnold (seen here in her mother's arms) is believed to be with her parents in their flight to escape arrest for murder. The parents, W. M. and Mildred Arnold, are wanted in Kansas City, Mo., for the slaying of Lawrence I. Hatfield, a Pinkerton detective. But police do not think the couple, on account of the baby, can evade capture very long.

$100 PER PLATE PRICE OF LUNCH

Proceeds From Dinner Will Be Used To Aid Lincoln Memorial University.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 9. (AP)—A luncheon in Detroit at the Detroit Athletic Club yesterday opened the way to knowledge for several hundred young men and women.

It was not an exceptional luncheon as luncheons go from a culinary standpoint, although thoroughly delightful. It had no particular frills, or furbelows. But nearly 30 Detroiters found it interesting enough to pay luncheon checks of $100 a plate and several others paid the same for plates that they could not be present to use.

About $8,000 raised. . . . Then an anonymous gift of $31,000 was received to swell the fund raised by the luncheon. It made approximately $39,000 that will be added to the funds of the Lincoln Memorial university, Harrogate, Tenn., within sight of the famous Cumberland Gap.

The luncheon originally was designed to provide Detroiters with an opportunity to learn of the work of educating young native Americans who in the fastnesses of the Tennessee and Kentucky hills have never had the chance of self-advancement that other children have. The only speaker at the luncheon was Dr. Robert O. Matthews, president of the university. He was introduced by Mrs. Robert L. Messinger, recorder of the local organization of the Dames to the Loyal Legion. Mark T. McKee, of Detroit, the Michigan member of the board of directors, and F. A. Seiberling of Akron, O., president of the board, were the only officials of the university present.

Dr. Matthews detailed at length the work of the university. He pictured its ideals of symbolizing the spirit of Abraham Lincoln, in which the work of the institution is centered.

Endowment Necessary. The problem of reaching all of these mountain folk, who Dr. Matthews insisted were not ignorant but illiterate, was described as impossible without endowment far beyond anticipation at present. There is more literacy among the hill native born Tennesseans over 10 years old than there is among all of the foreign born population of the United States, Matthews said.

The eagerness and aptitude of these unfortunate for their rightful heritage of learning were described in several pathetic stories of experiences at the university. Dr. Matthews told of one mother bringing a boy to the institution. She wanted him to have schooling. She had no money, she said. At the time, Dr. Matthews continued, the university funds were at low ebb. All scholarships had been exhausted. He told the mother so. Disappointed, she and her boy went away. Next day the boy was back. He had $25, which Matthews had told the mother would see him through that year. It was more money than the hill family had ever had at one time, the boy said.

Dr. Matthews said he asked how it had been procured over night. "Mother sold our cow," he replied.

School Founded 30 Years Ago. The university was founded nearly 30 years ago, Matthews continued, and went on to relate how many of its scholars have since gone to high places. Others have gone back to their mountain homes and in certain sections their acquired knowledge has had marked community improvement effects he said.

"Broke Up Home" Charge By Mortimer Against Forbes

OPENING OF DAM
HINDERS SCIENCE

Indian Mounds at Muscle Shoals Have Been Subject Of Study For Scientific World.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—The opening of the big Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals during 1925 will blot out a laboratory of science. Under the direction of Dr. J. Walter Fowkes, chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, Gerrard Fowkes, a trained scientific worker, has been exploring Indian mounds at Muscle Shoals that will be covered with water, when the big Wilson Dam is put into commission. The relics which Mr. Fowkes found are being packed up to be sent to the institution for study. Just what Indian tribe they belonged to remains to be determined.

The Tennessee Valley Historical Society invited Dr. Fowkes to have the mounds explored and he sent Mr. Fowkes to excavate them at the mouth of Town Creek, Colbert County, Alabama, some two months ago. Mr. Fowkes also made a trip to the point recently and brought back with him to Washington some of the scientific finds. They include copper ornaments, beads and a species of brespitale, showing, Doctor Fowkes said, that the Indians to whom they belonged prized that metal highly.

Mr. Fowkes took two representative mounds and found that one was a large mound of mussel shells and the other a small mound. The countless shells of mussels, which the Indians apparently took from the Tennessee River, are remains of their feasts. With a variation in the spelling, Dr. Fowkes explained, the fresh water mussels in that river gave their name to Muscle Shoals.

The debris usually found in an Indian village was encountered in the mussel mound, interspersed with flint heads, knives, fragments of pottery and stones used in cooking. Barbecue holes for cooking animals in were located.

Mr. Fowkes, in a report recently submitted to Dr. Fowkes, said many skeletons were unearthed, often with 400 bones weighing 20 to 35 pounds placed upon them. On account of the cotton cultivation he was unable to give the exact height of the mound, but estimated it at nine feet. Traces of a village and of fire used to cook the mussels were found in the vicinity.

DEATH CLAIMS MAHLON PITNEY

Although Former Justice Had Been Ill For Many Months His Death Was Surprise.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. (AP)—Former Justice Mahlon Pitney, of the supreme court died here early today. Death occurred in the hours immediately after midnight. Justice Pitney was 61 years old. He retired from the bench because of ill health in 1922.

Although Justice Pitney was seriously ill for many months, an immediate death was unexpected. No intimation was given that his condition was more unfavorable than it had been for some time.

He was born at Morristown, N. J., Feb. 5, 1853. Graduating in 1879 from Princeton University at the age of 21, the future associate justice was admitted to the bar of his state two years later. After three years practice he was elected to the 51th and 52th Congresses on the republican ticket, became a state senator in 1898 and president of that body in 1901. It was at this point that his unusual ability to untangle legal snarls which accompany equity cases, became publicly recognized with an appointment to the state court of errors and appeals of that state. After seven years service, he was named State Chancellor, the highest legal position in the gift of New Jersey which office he held until President Taft appointed him to the Supreme Court in March, 1912.

NATIVE MOROS ABIDE BY KORAN

Lack Of Home Life In Southern Islands Said To Influence Of Mohammedan Religion.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (AP)—The absence of civilization in the southern provinces of the Philippine islands is attributed to the lack of home life and the practice of polygamy among the native Moros, said Mrs. Carl M. Moore, wife of the governor of the southern islands of the Philippines and herself a Filipino. She is visiting in Los Angeles.

"There can be no home life where there is a harem," Mrs. Moore explained. "The lack of home life in the Southern Islands, not over 1,500 small islands, totaling not over 1,100 square miles, is due to the influence of the Mohammedan religion. Every man there under Mohammedan rule not only avails himself of the Koran's granted right to four wives, but he also takes advantage of the modern privilege of divorce. Like a poker player he is continually throwing one wife into the discard and picking a fresh one from the deck, providing himself in this manner with a continual succession of young beauties for his harem."

"When a woman marries in the bridegroom or his family gives her a dowry. If she runs away from her husband and it is proved that he treated her cruelly, she keeps the dowry, whether lands, cattle or money. But if she is unfaithful and runs away with another man, she must return not only the dowry but twice the amount. There are very unfaithful wives."

FOUND WITH WIFE
Government Witness Says He Hopes Mrs. Mortimer Will Secure Divorce Asked In Philadelphia.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9. (AP)—The bitter personal feelings of Elias H. Mortimer, chief government witness in the Veteran's Bureau conspiracy trial, against Col. Charles R. Forbes, one of the defendants, came out frequently in the defense cross-examination of Mortimer yesterday.

Mortimer charged that Forbes had broken up his home, and said that he "hoped" Mrs. Mortimer had received the divorce for which she applied in Philadelphia a few days ago. He said he agreed not to contest it.

"I found him in my apartment with Mrs. Mortimer Labor Day evening, 1922," Mortimer said "and I helped him out and told him not to come back. I mean as he was going out, I helped him along. There are still some things I want to even with Forbes."

ABOLISH DETOURS NORTH OF CORBIN

Travel To Be Turned On New Road According To Western Carolina Motor Club.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 9.—All detours on the Dixie Route "A" in Kentucky north of Corbin will be eliminated and travel turned on new road, according to information received by the Asheville Western Carolina Motor club last night from W. H. Caplier, member of the Kentucky Dixie A committee at Corbin, and W. H. Fish, member of the Mt. Vernon Dixie A committee.

Mr. Caplier, who has given much time and several hundred dollars to this road work writes, "Our detour north of Corbin will be reduced to two miles tomorrow (December 5), and the entire road from London to Corbin (14 miles) will be completed in the next ten days."

Mr. Fish of Mt. Vernon says, "We have many tourists stopping here every day for information, and I want to ask you to send me maps and Asheville advertising matter to show them. I might say for your information that the gap between Mt. Vernon and Rounsaville is almost closed, only 600 to 800 feet, and that will be done in two weeks. These two places were the ones which have been giving most trouble the past two or three weeks, since the completion of the rough stretch south of Berea, declared N. Buckner, manager of the local Motor club, who has been actively engaged in working the past year for the open road through Kentucky.

Continuing he said that the stretch between Harboursville and local travel by the state highway department of Kentucky, and this would insure continuous travel with but 14 miles of rough road, which is less bad mileage in wet weather than will be found on any other road between the north and the south.

Roscoe A. Marvel, president of the Asheville Western Carolina Motor club said last night by counts made on different occasions "that from 150 to 200 foreign cars a day are coming through Walden Gap, both from the Dixie Route A and the Shenandoah Valley route from Johnson City. And they spend an average of one day in Asheville or Hendersonville, spending an average of $7.50 per day. It would mean $5,000 dollars a day, $18,000 a month or $510,000 of new money in the financial reservoir hereabouts from this travel. Only recently an Illinois man going south over Dixie A stopped in Asheville, fell in love with the place, and bought a lot at Beaver Lake. A similar incident occurred in Hendersonville recently.

Hidden Gold Lures Treasure Hunters

MANILA, Dec. 9. (AP)—Two chests of Spanish gold said to have been hidden 100 years ago in a cave in the typhoon-swept hills of Cebu Babuyan, one of the northernmost islands of the Philippine group, is challenging the spirit of several venturesome, Manilaans who are preparing to go in search of the treasure. The gold, according to the natives, was secreted by an old woman who sought protection for her treasure from the Spanish earthquakes and volcanic eruptions on the island.

The crew of a coast-guard vessel which recently visited the island brought word that two local natives about five feet long and ship's bell taken from a ship's wrecked there were found. The bell was a common workshop tool of a local chapel which is without a roof. There are two villages on the island.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THAT the way to build a lasting business is to secure and hold customers.
THAT the only way to do it is to keep offering them through the printed page, desirable standard, quality merchandise at reasonable prices.
THAT merchandise that can stand persistent advertisement makes an appeal to the public that brings customers back time and time again.
THAT truthful advertising gives the public confidence, confidence in the merchandise and the concerns that sell it.
THAT persistent advertising bespeaks enterprise which gains friends for business.
THAT it proves that the advertiser has the right merchandise at the right price.
Well advertised merchandise is superior in every way. People who are in the market for better, know that fact.
Good advertising not only makes new customers, but makes old customers buy more.
Quality, persistently advertised, creates in the people a desire that possession only satisfies.
The only way to get business is to go after it by advertising. Getting business by advertising is easy, cheap and sure.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Sunday, this capital of the "world's greatest democracy" doesn't recognize the fact of the Russian revolution any more. Daily Secretary of State Hughes officially recognizes the Soviet Union as the Russian empire.

Wherefore, the visit to the capital of Grand Duces Cyril of Russia is being arranged in a grand style and the social elite are all agog over the chances of entertaining at even meeting "Her Imperial Highness."

No one thinks or speaks of her as an ex-imperial highness, or an ex-grand duchess. All announcement and invitations having to do with her entertainment while here give her the prestige of all her old time titles as though they were still intact.

In fact the impressiveness of these are even magnified by the whispered explanation that her husband, Grand Duke Cyril, has recently proclaimed himself emperor of all the Russias and that the distinguished guests is in reality, none other than the empress of Russia!

THE irony of the situation which Washington's social circles do not seem to recognize, is that the "grand duchess" comes to Washington by invitation of Mrs. Robert Lansing.

It was Mrs. Lansing's husband who is secretary of state, sent the Root commission to Russia immediately after the Kerensky uprising in 1917, in an effort to make the overthrow of the Russian empire. Now, as head of local "Russian Relief" activities she sponsors the visit of an "empress" whose loss of an empire was officially assisted by her husband.

The present administration, however, will take great care to see that officially, no cognizance is taken of the "royal" visitor's presence. While we have never recognized the Soviet government, we did endorse the Kerensky republic and the overthrow of the empire, and any diplomatic courtesies to the ex-grand duchess might require a lot of explaining.

But socially? Well—that's different. Either a past or prospective empress becomes the mistress of the house. And the presidential suite at the New Willard Hotel is scoured and dusted to make ready for her coming.

INTIMATION that President Coolidge does not expect Charles D. Dawes as vice president, to sit with the cabinet, as Coolidge said, with the cabinet under President Harding, has revived rumors that there is a little prospect of Coolidge and his running mate becoming chummy during their administration.

Of course, it may be simply the Coolidge's preference for the old ways is the chief factor. The practice was an innovation begun by President Harding.

But Washington, on its part, has it that beneath the surface, the real reason lies in a continuing feud between Chairman Senator Butler and Dawes which has kept their relations strained and which is something of a handicap on any likelihood of close companionship between Dawes and Coolidge.

Dawes never was the preference of the Coolidge administration as the protest of Butler on occasions during the campaign for Coolidge made it clear and the vice presidential candidate, with more or less first presidential running mate. He was put across at Cleveland over the works. As between Butler and Dawes, the Massachusetts senator is believed much the more likely to have the inside track of the executive.

has never yet produced a successful man or woman. Success is seldom a matter of chance. When you save your first dollar the foundation is laid. You should investigate the safest place to put it—with the highest interest return—where it will render you and the community the greatest good. Building and Loan Associations are unquestionably the safest place for savings. They pay you a high rate of interest. They use your funds to build more houses and make the city grow and prosper. They will help you buy a home or make a profitable Real Estate investment. Here your dollars work for you and the whole community, rather than make a profit for some one else.

Old Sol To Hide On January 24

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The total eclipse of the sun on Saturday, January 24, 1925, will be visible in the weather is favorable, in a shadow path stretching from Minnesota, just east of Red Lake, extending over Michigan, part of Canada, New York, Pennsylvania, to New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Naval observatory scientists say it will be the first time the east has been able to witness a total solar eclipse for many years. The central path of the eclipse will run very nearly through such centers of population as Buffalo, N. Y. and New Haven, Conn. The eclipse will terminate in the Atlantic Ocean, north of the British Isles. Communities outside the shadow path will witness the eclipse as partial.

In the Hudson River area the shadow path will be about 110 miles broad. The Naval Observatory believes, while in Minnesota it will be about 85 miles.

The Nautical Almanac Office of the Observatory has compiled figures showing, in eastern standard time, the time of beginning, middle and ending of the eclipse for a number of cities.

Be careful when buying eggs for Christmas. They may be bad. And the same is true about the hog.

Only four more shopping months before Easter. How time flies. And after Easter comes—fly time. Ho hum.
